KEZAR FALLS

Mr. and Mrs. Giles and family of Hotel Kezar, who have all been ill with the prevailing epidemic, although at present recovering, were obliged one recent evening under existing circumstances to change the pleasure of the Keweenaw Club society, knowing they would be cared for, and had accepted the Daisy Club's invitation to meet with them in the shelter of the M. E. vestry. Mrs. Sidney B. Stanley, Mrs. Fred French, Mrs. Florence French and Mrs. Fred French were the guests in charge. The Daisies decided for the second time in the history of the vestry, the Keweenaw should feast on roast chicken and all accessories. Bonfire was speaker of the evening and his theme, "Friendship," which was doubly interesting to the audience, as this village is blessed with two ministers of the gospel who exemplify by their teaching and daily walk the full meaning and beauty of that desirable attribute.

The Ladies' Circle met with Mrs. Stanley B. Stanley, Feb. 25th and spent a very enjoyable afternoon. After the regular business meeting, ice cream was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanislaus Riley have returned to their home in Bangor after a few days passed with Mrs. Riley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Palmer.

Alvin Stanley, an esteemed resident of this town passed away recently, after a two weeks sickness, aged seventy-four years. Services were held in the Advent Christian Chapel, Feb. 26th, Rev. Mitchell, an old time friend assisted by Rev. Bert Shorey, officiated. The text was, "And God Shall Wipe Away All Tears."

Two selections were sung by W. T. Norton and Mrs. Edwold Elliott, "Jesus, Blessed Jesus" and "Rest and Reward." There were many beautiful flowers. The flowers were William Stacey, Walter Libby, Robert Merrill and Milton Varney. Mr. Stanley leaves a wife to mourn her loss, a son, Curtis, three sisters and a brother, Interment in Riverside cemetery.

Grace, wife of Carl Stanley, who had been a semi-invalid for years, but was thought to be improving, suffered a relapse and after a brief illness, passed away, Mar. 3rd. She had many friends, endeared to her by her helpfulness, patience and sweetness of disposition. She was a member of the M. E. church, the Daisy class, Thursday Club, Library Association and Circle. She leaves a husband to mourn his loss, two sisters and two brothers, and many friends. It might well be said of her, "For of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

HOMEMAKING

The home is more than a house. The home is where the children are born, where they are nurtured through the many trials, taught to live the infant, prayer, and through trials and triumphs, disappointments and dismay, they at last reach manhood and womanhood and go to establish new homes for themselves. From these homes men as a pilgrim sets sail for his heavenly home.

The teachers of homemaking have within their grasp the opportunity to develop character, create noble ideals and set in vibration silver chords of inspiration and golden threads of ambition which will usher in a glad tomorrow and kiss away many tears and banish heartaches.

The desire for a good home is deep-planted in an imperishable thing in the soul of a normal man. Perhaps it is not too much to say that in every good home the Father sends out His seraphim with the hallowed fires of His altar to touch and purify the lips and lives of those who dwell therein.

Oxford County United Parish

February Term

Embracing Albany, Center Lovell, North Lovell, Stoneham and the Waterfalls. Pastoral Staff: Rev. W. I. Bull, R. A. Brandon, A. C. Townsend.

The Council held its bi-monthly meeting last Thursday, March 5, at North Waterford. While there was but little of Parish business to be transacted, there was considerable discussion of various parish problems. The matter of holding fewer Council meetings was discussed and laid on the table until the next meeting. An excellent dinner was served by the North Waterford Circle. In the afternoon, a very able and helpful address was delivered by Rev. Conrad B. Edmister of Norway, on the topic, "The What-and-Why of the Social Gospel."

A Sunday school has been organized at North Lovell. It meets in the evening, just before the preaching service. At East Stoneham, on account of the outbreak of what appears to be some contagious disease, all public gatherings have been suspended by order of the Board of Health. Consequently there were no services there last Sunday.

A Church Members' Supper was scheduled for Tuesday evening of this week, at North Waterford, and one at Waterford for Friday evening. The storms are making it difficult to carry out some of the Lenten plans of the Staff.

Rev. R. A. Brandon met with the Excelsior 4H Club of Waterford last Friday. Arrangements were made to have the Club under the leadership of Clinton Kilgore and Charles Fillebrown. Miss Plummer, the County Club Leader, met with the Excelsior Club.

The attendance at the services in the East Waterford schoolhouse continues to lead that in most of the churches. It was second only to that at Center Lovell, last Sunday.

Next Sunday evening there will be another Forum in the Grange Hall at South Waterford. The topic for discussion will be "Labor Saving Inventions—Their good and bad effects." Upon making these forums are proving very helpful and interesting.

DON C. SEITZ, THE FAMOUS JOURNALIST, ON WASHINGTON

(From the Chatham (N. J.) Press)

The Lenten Forums were started in St. Paul's Church Sunday night with a talk on Washington by Don C. Seitz, the famous journalist, author and publisher, who is always a favorite with a Chatham audience.

Mr. Seitz placed Washington on a pedestal as one of the great men of all time, a dominant personality, respected by all, and a natural leader. He said his true greatness was shown when after having made a free nation he refused to take the reward which could easily have been his. He could have founded a dynasty as king or dictator, or anything else. Instead he returned to private life, emphasizing later to be the first president of the new republic for two terms.

No one who knows Mr. Seitz would expect him to be tied to one subject for long, and his talk Sunday evening was no exception. His talk on Washington suggested a comment on other great men, Hamilton, Franklin, Jefferson, Adams and contemporaries.

Mr. Seitz has just published a book entitled, "Lincoln, the Politician" and while not commenting on the Great Emancipator, he briefly did say that the conditions which were dominant in the political life of Lincoln had a counterpart in those of the present time. Both of the then political parties flirited with the slavery issue much as the two major parties are today fliriting with the prohibition issue. He insisted that a crisis was now impending in the pre-Civil War days with a secession from the Union in the offing. A Lincoln was needed now with courage and determination to find some way out of the mess and he saw strong signs of a third party.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It does not color the scalp and is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Thoughts on Agriculture

Present Conditions and How They Have Come Into Being

By R. L. Cummings

It is Saturday night and I have not forgotten our fine Pomona meeting here on the 3rd of February. The meeting was a success, as usual, the address of the speaker, Mr. Atherton, selected by our lecturer, Austin Stearns, Jr. To sum up the address in brief, it was that we are on an incline plane still going downward in the price of farm products. We have great competition from all sorts of farm products from other sections by truck as well as by rail. It is better for us to know the depth of the water before we go, than to be surprised when we find it so deep.

To all of this I agree. I do not agree, however, with the idea that such things have happened before, and are therefore unavoidable and should be endured with patient resistance.

No doubt Mr. Atherton will agree with me that all things within the range of human events have a cause and therefore a cure. With these conditions we are most painfully familiar, we feel, however, like the sick man who had a doctor tell him all about how he felt, that he had a fever; that people had had fevers before, and that he would be worse before he was better, and that he should be patient and endure it, and then leaving thinking that the entertainment was what we needed instead of a remedy.

Even this left our stomachs in more normal condition than the stock remedy. Produce more fine, well graded goods to make those people out of jobs and money pay a high price for.

We do really need a doctor or at least a remedy for our serious troubles, and if as Mr. Atherton says, we are to be worse we must conclude that our doctors or teachers have been on the wrong track. What we need the most is to find out the cause of our troubles and then find the remedy. We hope that our lecturer will be able to find someone who can point out those two very important factors.

About forty-four years ago I attended a Farmers' Institute meeting in New Gloucester, in what was then the new town hall. It was a very fine meeting with full houses. There was a Co-operative Creamery in town and all seemed to want to know all the professors could teach them about dairying and everything else.

For more than forty years we have been preying upon; prayed for and preached to along these same lines. What is the result? Gathered cream from that factory two weeks while the regular man was attending court in Portland. Take a trip over that route today and you will see what political and financial institutions and other things have done in the line of developing agriculture. Go over the state and you will find the same evidence. From what little I have been able to see, I feel that the case of the people has been handled by the other fellow's counsel.

Every lecturer of a Pomona Grange whose sympathies were with the other fellow will naturally select speakers that are on his side of the question.

Mr. Canham of the Lewiston Sun, who visits our Pomona granges in the capacity of a speaker, says the best way to get talking about these matters and just let them go. Forty years of this sort of leadership has kept Maine agriculture steadily falling behind other industries of the country.

Few of the men that are chosen as speakers seem to see any of the hundred and one things that have brought us to this deplorable condition. If they did, they would, why not at least attempt to explain them and find a remedy? In my opinion the powers behind the throne do not want it done.

Just a word to our Lecturer: I wish to thank him for coming over to the support of the proposed amendment to the apple law. We had a vote of the full house, about 50 in the favor. Then he accused me of misrepresenting the case of the growers. I didn't do anything of the kind, I simply stated that two lots of apples that had been condemned as not passable as A and B grade were sold in bulk for $5c to $10.00 per barrel, but that these lots eventually packed a carload and did get them passed through Boston. The car from Livermore net $740.20 the car from the I. H. Ellingwood lot net $455 per barrel. I did not state that these apples were marked unclassified.

I will state that I carefully examined the Ellingwood lot on the trees and loaded about 700 barrels of them in bulk and I know that they would have sorted well for A and B grade apples under either the Maine law or the Federal law. The fact that they net $4.55 per barrel is sufficient proof of that fact to any fair minded man, I think.

It is quite another matter to pass apples with an inspector with his rule of inspection, especially if he has once turned them down. Although I am creditably informed that the same inspector took a man to see that car of apples that net $746.20, after they were packed and offered $2.00 per barrel for them.

Could there be any more convincing proof that we are entitled to an amendment to this apple law that will allow us to sell our apples in the manner we sell other goods?

If you need any more proof, think of the 200,000 barrels of apples under the new law in Maine today and the loss of value of our orchards and farms that have come from such a cause.

How many more days of labor at good wages would it have made for the unemployed, and how much more earnings to the railroads and to barrel-makers, and how much more money would have passed through the channels of trade?

Changing a normally left-handed person into a right-handed one may cause a mental limp. Dr. Ira S. Wile of New York told the American Orthopsychiatric Association at their annual meeting in New York City, Feb. 20. This psychologist shows itself in behavior, disorders of varying degrees, such as illegible writing, mirror writing, difficulty in reading, stuttering, school failure, truancy, lying and stealing. Allowing the left-handed to return to the use of his left hand, which is more natural and normal for him, usually clears up the behavior difficulty.

Besides allowing the patient to use his right eye by reading and studying with a patch over the left eye. The close connection of the eye and hand on the same side, and the fact that books are made for people whose right eyes, like their right hands, are dominant, makes it more difficult for naturally left-handed persons to learn to read. This education of the right eye is sufficient to correct the behavior disorder in some children without reverting to left-handedness.

The world happens to be geared for right-handed people, who are in the majority. The left-handed child, however, should not be made to feel inferior, but should be given extra assistance in adjusting himself to a right-handed world. This does not necessarily mean that he must learn to use his right hand. "The rights of minorities should be respected and all the rights of the left hand to normal expression should not be denied," Dr. Wile said.

Consideration of the brain structure complicates the possibilities of nervous derangement incidental to tampering with brain functions, such as writing. The left hand and side are independent on the activity of the right, half of the brain while the left half of the brain governs the right hand and side. When the left hand is called to move in accordance with directions and controls from its own left brain jobs, nervous tension results. This retarding of impulses involves slowing up process and likewise affects the normal channels for co-ordination. Conversion to dexterity requires a readjustment of the nervous paths involved in the seeing of words, letters, numbers and objects which serve as the basis of a considerable part of the learning process.

WATER CONTAMINATED ACCORDING TO ANALYSIS

A report from the state board of a sample of water from the spring of Mrs. F. C. Tribou on High Street, advises that the water at present is not suitable for drinking.

Several weeks ago samples of water from this spring and from two sources for domestic supply in Norway were sent to the state department at the instance of the house economics students in Norway High School.

To get a definite statement of fact, Dr. J. G. Littlefield of the Paris Board of Health, wrote to the state board and received the following reply:

Dear Dr. Littlefield: Replying to your letter of March 4th, please be advised that the sample of water submitted from the spring of Mrs. Tribou, shows the presence of decomposing organic matter in a large quantity, indicating that the water is seriously contaminated, and its use as drinking water for the public would entail considerable danger. We do not advise water of this quality to be used for drinking purposes.

As soon as conditions become such as it will be possible to make a thorough investigation we will be glad to have you communicate with us again asking us to make an investigation, this will be as soon as the snow has left the ground.

Elmer W. Campbell, D. P. H., Director, Division of Sanitary Engineering.

There has never been a suggestion that the Tribou spring was not above suspicion and people from Norway and elsewhere have joined with South Paris in making the well kept place their source of refreshing drinking water, especially during sweltering weather.

The spring is just off High Street, near Swift's Crossing, a mile from Market Square. Mrs. Tribou, the owner, put the spring into shape, built a shelter, with a fence, and public given free right of way over adjacent land.

JOB-SEEKERS NOT TO COME TO WASHINGTON

The United States Civil Service Commission advised the public not to come to Washington for the purpose of seeking Federal employment.

The Commission explained that the District of Columbia Committee on Employment has called its attention to a number of pathetic cases where persons have come from considerable distances expecting to obtain a Government position on the strength of having passed a civil service examination only to become stranded and in some instances a public charge.

It was pointed out that even if a person has passed a civil service examination with a high rating, he has no assurance that a position will be immediately available to him. Appointments to Federal positions, the Commission said, are made only as the actual needs of the service require, and in accordance with the civil service rules, and the presence of an applicant in Washington can not in any way improve or expedite any prospects of employment.

The Commission stated in conclusion that no one should come to Washington expecting to receive a Federal position except in response to a definite offer of employment from a Government establishment.

There was a splendid representation of the various appointments at the annual meeting of the Saco Valley Parish Council held at the Harbor church on Thursday, David Bradley, the president, called the meeting to order, and the Rev. Cymril Hughes, superintendent of the Harbor, read the report of the Harbor church. Reports were received from the pastors, the treasurer and the standing committees.

Edgar, G. V. Cross, W. H. Pavy and Frank Pray, sang some numbers which were well received.

Following the parish meeting, the Rev. Cymril Hughes conducted the Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Fryeburg Harbor Methodist Episcopal church. At this meeting reports are received by all the organizations of the church and arrangements made for the forthcoming annual conference. The Rev. and Mrs. Walter Pavy were unanimously invited to return for another year.

Mrs. Pavy said she felt it her duty to decline the invitation. In discussing plans for securing a successor for Mr. Pavy, the district superintendent urged the Official Board to modernize the church and so make it easier for the work for a larger parish. Upon motion of the board, the trustees were asked to take steps toward the installing of a bath room and running water.

There was no service at West Fryeburg on Sunday on account of the bad state of the harbor. Church school with Lucia Guphill and Ralston Bennett, captains of the opposing teams. Lucia leaped ahead on the Sunday with several new members. The contest closed with Easter, and the side provides an entertainment for the winners.

Next Sunday, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be received at the North Fryeburg service. All members and friends of the church are invited to partake.

At the Parish Council and also at the Methodist resort Monday, resolutions were unanimously passed, expressing regret that the term of Mr. Hughes superintendency expired with the coming conference and placing on record thanks for the great assistance and giving to the local church and to the United Parish since its formation.
